

OWN YOUR HOME IS SLOGAN IN 160 CITIES

Real Estate Men Plan to Organize Nation-Wide Fight Against Billboards

PHILADELPHIA TO THE FORE

Special Dispatch to Evening Public Ledger, Atlantic City, June 26.—More than 160 live cities in the United States are now conducting aggressive "own your home" campaigns in consequence of a movement started away out on the Pacific coast two years ago.

Paul C. Murphy, chairman of the Real Estate Board of Portland, Ore., declared before the National Association of Real Estate Boards here.

Philadelphians are taking an active part this afternoon in plans to organize a nation-wide fight against billboards as one of the most injurious of agencies detrimental to realty values.

State associations are needed to back up the work of the national organization and the local broker boards and get the ears of Legislatures. A. M. Gilman, of Jackson, Mich., declared today, in urging that the realty preparedness campaign be strengthened by county boards also.

James M. Franconeri, of St. Louis, advocated the election of a representative of the real estate interests upon the board of directors of the National Chamber of Commerce.

The Los Angeles delegation today invited the 2000 delegates to a California night at the Hotel Ambassador this evening.

L. N. Putnam, of New Orleans, director of the trade extension campaign of the Southern Pine Association, urged the real estate men to visualize a home upon every vacant lot in their respective cities, not merely a house, but a 50x100 foot home in every sense the word implies.

Real estate men, the southern speaker said, should preach ideas no less than the clergyman and social worker, because every home built is a peacetime victory for a better and happier America.

The Rev. C. H. Williamson, of Memphis, chaplain to the national association, said that the shoulder-to-shoulder spirit that is being shown in the trenches overseas is going to be a powerful agency for a more united country. He urged civilians to adopt the shoulder-to-shoulder slogan.

Philadelphians, it was said this morning, may line up with Atlanta for the 1920 convention. The Atlantans got into the fight in earnest, and, as a consequence, big badges carrying the slogan "Meet Me in Atlanta" were conspicuous on the Boardwalk and everywhere that the 2000 delegates foregathered.

Portland, however, is putting up a strong bid for the Pacific coast and it is believed that Philadelphia has a good compromise chance in the event of a drawn battle between Portland and Atlanta.

THETA DELTA CHI FRATERNITY SESSION

Representatives of 26 American Chapters Hold Meeting at Aldine

One hundred and sixteen men were registered and a total attendance of between two and three hundred is expected at the annual convention of Theta Delta Chi fraternity, which opened at Aldine Hotel this morning.

Registration commenced at 9 o'clock and indicated that a full representation of the twenty-six American and two Canadian "charges" or chapters could be expected.

Bishop Rhinelandt gave the address of welcome at a secret meeting at 10 o'clock. All meetings are to be secret with the possible exception of the banquet on Saturday night, which may be thrown open to representatives of the press.

Unique as the first convention free of war's shadow that has been held in four years, also for its memorial service, which will commemorate fifty-seven killed in service across the water, the note of patriotism will be dominant.

It is announced, in the present gathering, there were 1847 members of Theta Delta Chi in service abroad. This placed the fraternity, founded in 1848, among the leaders in national sacrifice.

That theme was maintained throughout, particular emphasis being placed on combating the tendency to radical ideas among colleges. Dr. Hollis Godfrey, of Drexel Institute, will dwell at length on the topic as toastmaster at the banquet.

John Harvey Lee, of Germantown, F. J. Hunnison, Oak Lane, and J. P. Shook, Germantown, will speak at the memorial meeting.

And there is one more speaker—the speaker, after a college way of thinking, He is Frazier Hunt, of the Chicago Tribune, the man who was supposed to be in Russia writing entertaining letters on the battles of the Reds, when he turned up in New York one day with the much discussed copy of the peace treaty.

Officers of the national fraternity are Seward G. Spoor, of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, president; Carl Tombo, valuation engineer of the P. and R. Railway and Central of New Jersey, secretary; Guy Pierce, advertising manager of the Independent, treasurer.

WAR BREWS FOR BOSTON

Saloonkeepers Get Licenses to Sell Kickless Beer

Boston, June 25.—Boston saloonkeepers plan to sell 2 1/2 per cent beer after July 1. John J. Galvin, secretary of the Retail Liquor Dealers' Association, announced yesterday.

His statement explained the eagerness of dealers in applying for licenses recently. "It is the plan of the liquor dealers," said Secretary Galvin, "to reopen for the sale of 2 1/2 per cent beer and also if stronger beverages are not permitted at that point which legislation does not cut off. One general position is not to defy the law, but the law has not yet decided what strength of liquor is intoxicating."

Cynwyd Girl Gets Scholarship

Miss Edith Moleher, of Cynwyd, a student of the Lower Merion High school, has been awarded a scholarship to Bryn Mawr, according to the announcement of scholarship awards by the college yesterday.

Those from other states who won scholarships to the institution are Mary Adams, Belle Haven, Conn.; Beatrice Bend Bishop, New York City; and Virginia Miller, Winterset, Ill.

GOSSIP OF THE STREET

NEW PENNSYLVANIA STATE BONDS FIND READY MARKET

One Sale Is Reported of $2,500,000 and Early Oversubscription to Big Issue Is Expected—Gossip of the Street

THERE was little of importance taking place in the financial district yesterday, outside the announcement by a member of the syndicate which purchased the $12,000,000 issue of state of Pennsylvania bonds of the sale to one person or institution of $2,500,000. This is the largest single subscription for these bonds as yet received, but it is said the demand for them has been very satisfactory.

In the brokers' offices and in the Street there was an air of waiting and expectancy. One of the favorite "indoor sports" seemed to be guessing what "fool" thing the Germans would do next before signing the treaty. Everything in the stock market is waiting for the final news that the peace treaty is really signed. Some brokers are of the opinion that a fairly good rally will follow the signing, but they do not expect any news will arrive in time to effect the market during the Saturday half session. There are a few who are skeptical as to whether Germany will ever sign. These are also of the opinion that news of the signing would be the signal for a revolution in Germany, or, as one characterized it, a "French" revolution in Germany.

This, they claim, would not help matters and would have a depressing effect on stocks and securities. One broker who held this opinion fears a break between the military officers and the people. The former, he said, don't know they are beaten, and for that matter neither does the great mass of the people, but the latter want peace above everything.

Conservative brokers were advising clients to sell on further rallies this week and confine buying to issues like food stocks, which are most likely to benefit from the demand which will come immediately from enemy countries when the treaty is signed.

Optimism on Outlook Continues

The tantalizing uncertainty surrounding the signing of the peace treaty by the conduct of the Germans, according to a prominent broker, has more to do with the condition of the stock market than any one other influence.

"There is still as much cause for the optimism which was prevalent for some months before the recent reaction on the stock exchange," he said, "as there ever was; in fact, more so, because most of the reasons advanced then have been accumulating and have acquired so much more force. Take the steel business, for example. It is now expected that the demand would have become so great long before now that the plants would have been strained to supply it. They are said to be running about 50 per cent; but the demand is constantly growing, or rather the need is growing and the demand must come later."

He said he had been told by a railroad expert that the accumulated needs of the railroads, which have been running down at the heel recently, will be about 10,000,000 tons of steel. Some of the roads are bordering on an unsafe condition in many places, and with the transportation of the heaviest harvest ever grown the necessity for repairs is imperative. The only purchase made by the railroad administration of steel rails since the signing of the armistice was 200,000 tons, which is a mere bagatelle as compared with actual requirements to replace deteriorations. Everything seems to await the results in the steel market, he said, and when the railroad administration finds that there is to be no lowering of prices the orders will be given.

The general outlook for the continuance of the optimism of some months ago, in his opinion, is the harvest prospect.

"Up to the present," he remarked, "there has been no reason to revise the wonderful governmental reports of one and two months ago, except to increase the figures. As these crops are the base of our wealth, they leave no room for anything but the most pronounced optimism."

He said he believed the actual signing of the treaty and the return of President Wilson would be the signal for a big boom in the industrial affairs of this country.

As a further indication that the reasons for a pronounced optimism are generally recognized, this broker called attention to the following statement in a recent letter of the Guaranty Trust Company, of New York, dealing with the prevailing business conditions:

"There have been few periods since the signing of the armistice when the usual indicators of business conditions were more favorably pointed than during the last fortnight. Railroad tonnage has been very notably, apparently, dropping in response to stock renewal orders, which in turn being capable of the interpretation that merchants are under pressure from buyers or that the falling-price bogey has been laid. Bank clearings are running in advance of the totals a year ago. Building operations are steadily going forward. There is a tremendous demand from Europe and other countries for American products, and the astonishing condition of wheat and other crops is imparting an optimistic tone to our whole industrial life. While the iron and steel mills are at less than 60 per cent of capacity, there is the utmost confidence that heavy orders are in the making."

Plan Prepared to Finance Rail Equipment

A plan to finance the $400,000,000 which was paid by the railroad administration for equipment ordered was mentioned in this column recently. The matter had been referred to a committee of bankers to decide on the best plan to carry the financing out successfully.

At the time it was stated that the plan would be a suggestion for the issue of $300,000,000 of equipment trust certificates to be issued on an attractive basis so that they would appeal to the investing public, the remaining $100,000,000 to be made up from the rentals, etc., on the equipment to be leased to the various roads. It now appears that the banking committee has drawn up such a plan, but the amount of the certificates recommended is $280,000,000 instead of $300,000,000.

The committee has drawn up a report to be presented later to the railroad administration, and it is understood that none of the particulars are to be given out until the railroad administration approves. The principal point on which it is expected the railroad administration will disagree with the report is that part which provides for the ownership of the equipment in the roads receiving it instead of in the government.

When Southern Pacific Railroad stock on Tuesday went from 105 1/2 to 108 1/2, search was made for the cause. It was said at first that the Supreme Court had given its decision in the oil land cases and that it was in favor of the railroad as against the government. Later it turned out that the decision was not by the Supreme Court, but was given by a California court in a case involving oil properties, but that there was a wide difference between the status of the case question and the Southern Pacific case, which involves the granting of land titles.
